What should Australia's role in the world be?

HAVE YOUR SAY

Right now, the Government is writing a long-term plan or "White Paper" for Australia's foreign policy that will set a direction for our role in the world. It's vital you take a few minutes to add your voice. We've made it easier for you with this submission form.

This is a critical moment to take action. Our world is facing multiple challenges of poverty, hunger, conflict, displaced people and climate change. As a country that values compassion and justice, Australia can and must do more to be a better global citizen - but it's up to us to make it happen!

Let the Government know that tackling shared global challenges ought to be a top foreign policy objective for Australia.

Thousands of submissions will make a powerful statement about the kind of world we want and the role Australia should play in making it happen.

No one else is going to fight for the change we need.

It's up to us to have our say.

SO, YOU'RE GOING TO WRITE A SUBMISSION. THAT'S GREAT!

Write from your heart about why ending global poverty and Australia being a compassionate global citizen is important to you. Write about the kind of world you want and why Australia should be part of addressing global challenges.

WHAT IMPORTANT POINTS SHOULD I INCLUDE IN MY SUBMISSION?

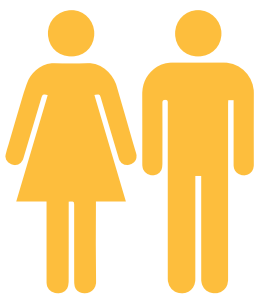

- We are part of a global community so we need to address the global challenges that impact us all as opposed to prioritising our own national-interest
- Ending global poverty, reducing inequality and tackling climate change should be top foreign policy objectives

WHAT ARE SOME SPECIFIC THINGS I SHOULD ASK FOR IN MY SUBMISSION?

- That the primary purpose of Australian aid should be to end global poverty, reduce inequalities, tackle climate change and achieve the UNs Sustainable Development Goals by 2030
- Develop and commit to a plan that sees Australia keeping its promise to contribute 70 cents out of every $100 of our gross national income to Australian aid

WHAT ARE SOME OTHER POINTS I COULD INCLUDE?

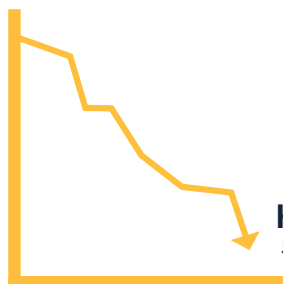

- Ending poverty and eliminating the world's worst epidemics will be one of humanity's greatest achievements but it won't happen by accident
- While the world has worked together to dramatically reduce extreme poverty and diseases like polio and malaria, inequality continues to rise and many millions still live in extreme poverty
- Climate change threatens the good progress we've made towards ending poverty.
- By making the largest ever cuts to Australian aid, we've turned our back on people living in the poorest parts of the world, at a time of unprecedented humanitarian need

Forcibly displaced 65.3m
people
The highest number of people fleeing their home, ever.

770m
people living in extreme poverty on less than $1.90 per day

Since 1990 we've cut the rate of child mortality in half however an estimated 5.9m children will still die each year

Climate change could drive 100m people into extreme poverty

MY SUBMISSION TO THE FOREIGN POLICY WHITE PAPER

I want Australia's foreign policy to reflect my vision of Australia as a compassionate global citizen that is leading the way to building a fairer and more sustainable world.

Ending global poverty, reducing inequalities and addressing climate change should be a top foreign policy objective of the Australian Government. Australia should be a leading global citizen helping to realise the United Nations' Global Sustainable Development Goals by 2030.
